PRESIDENT’S MESSAGE

Hopefully by now everyone has received the latest information printed in our last Newsletter on the schedule of events planned for the Montgomery County weekend. After several years of absence, the Fox Terrier Club of Maryland will once again be holding their Specialty on Friday, October 6, 2017 with the Hatboro Dog Club show. This year the AFTC has a new headquarters hotel, Staybridge Suites Montgomeryville and a new facility for our Annual Awards dinner and General Meeting at the Spring Hill Manor, a short 15 minute drive from the Hatboro show grounds. A dinner reservation form is in the last Newsletter along with the hotel block information.

The Board recently approved a letter of support for the newly formed Mid-Appalachian Smooth Fox Terrier Club and Secretary Snethen has sent the letter to the AKC Club Relations Department.

In mid-March of this year, two individuals contacted me regarding early 1900’s AFTC trophies. Through their generosity, these two trophies will be on display only on our trophy table. A pewter cup with AFTC logo and engraved Special won by Donnington Siren in 1909 and a pewter tankard with AFTC crest on the lid and engraved Special won by Banknote in Chicago in 1902. Come by and see these items from our past!

See you all in October,
Connie
Madison M. Weeks, 82, was born and lived most of his life in Jacksonville, Florida. He passed away May 17, 2017 in Jacksonville. He attended the University of Florida. He served two years in the U. S. Army in California.

In 1960, Madison and his partner, Hugh Thomas opened The Kennel Shop on St. Johns Avenue in Avondale, a successful business they owned for 44 years. Their kennel name was Waybroke. They started in Smooths with dogs from the Farrells’ Foxden Kennels. Madison and Hugh bred over 120 American Kennel Club Champions and numerous Group and Best in Show winners. Ch. Waybroke Extra Smooth sired 48 champions and they owned and showed the number two Greyhound in the country. Nearly all of their dogs were owner-handled. Hugh and Madison are co-breeders of the current top winning Smooth Fox Terrier in the United States, GCh. Hampton Court Broxden What In Carnation, and of the Best Smooth Fox Terrier at the World Dog Show in Moscow last year.

Madison was also an American Kennel Club Judge, licensed for Best in Show, all Hounds and Terriers and most of the Toy Group. He had judging assignments all over the United States, as well as Europe and China. He was President of the American Fox Terrier Club from 1987 - 1991. Madison is survived by his partner of 57 years, Hubert M. Thomas. He is sadly missed by his many friends.

CANINE INFLUENZA

Canine influenza (CI), or dog flu, is a highly contagious viral infection affecting dogs and also cats. Influenza viruses belong to the family Orthomyxoviridae. Canine Influenza is a Type A influenza virus and is further identified based on the composition of two specific proteins in the lipid outer layer of the capsid: hemagglutinin (HA) and neuraminidase (NA). At present, two strains of canine influenza virus have been identified in the United States: H3N8 and H3N2.

Influenza viruses are able to quickly change and give rise to new strains that can infect different species. Both strains of canine influenza identified in the U.S. can be traced to influenza strains known to infect species other than dogs. At some point, these viruses acquired the ability to infect dogs and be transmitted from dog to dog.

Canine H3N8 influenza was first identified in Florida in 2004 in racing greyhounds. It is thought this strain developed from an equine H3N8 influenza strain that jumped from horses to dogs. Since being detected in 2004, canine H3N8 influenza has been identified in dogs in most U.S. states and the District of Columbia.

Canine H3N2 influenza was first identified in the United States in March 2015 following an outbreak of respiratory illness in dogs in the Chicago area. Prior to this, reports of canine H3N2 influenza virus were restricted to South Korea, China and Thailand. It was initially identified in dogs in Asia in 2006-2007 and likely arose through the direct transfer of an avian influenza virus – possibly from among viruses circulating in live bird markets – to dogs.

Following the initial diagnosis in Chicago, additional cases of canine H3N2 influenza were reported in a number of states. In early 2016, a group of shelter cats in Indiana were diagnosed with H3N2 canine influenza. It is believed the virus was transmitted to them from infected dogs.

In May 2017, canine H3N2 influenza was diagnosed in dogs in Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Louisiana, and Illinois. This was the same strain of H3N2 involved in the 2015 outbreak in Chicago. There is no evidence that either strain of canine influenza (H3N8, H3N2) can infect humans.

Transmission

Canine influenza is transmitted through droplets or aerosols containing respiratory secretions from coughing, barking and sneezing. Dogs in close contact with infected dogs in places such as kennels, groomers, day care facilities and shelters are at increased risk of infection. CI can be spread indirectly through objects (e.g., kennels, food and water bowls, collars and leashes) or people that have been in contact with infected dogs. It is important to clean and disinfect objects that have been in contact with an infected dog to avoid exposing other dogs to the virus. Likewise, people who have been in contact with an infected dog should wash their hands and clean their clothing to avoid spreading the virus.
The virus can remain viable (alive and able to infect) on surfaces for up to 48 hours, on clothing for 24 hours, and on hands for 12 hours. It is important to implement biosecurity protocols and disinfection procedures to reduce the risk of disease transmission.

H3N8 has an incubation period of 1 to 5 days, with clinical signs in most cases appearing 2 to 3 days after exposure. Dogs infected with H3N2 may start showing respiratory signs between 2 and 8 days after infection. Dogs are most contagious during the incubation period and shed the virus even though they are not showing clinical signs of illness. Some dogs may show no signs of illness, but have a subclinical infection and shed the virus.

Pathology and Clinical Signs

Canine influenza virus infects and replicates inside cells in the respiratory tract from the nasal lining to the terminal airways. The inflammatory response to the infection results in rhinitis, tracheitis, bronchitis and bronchiolitis. The pathologic process results in death of the epithelial cells lining the respiratory tract, exposing the underlying basement membrane. This predisposes the respiratory tract to secondary bacterial infections that contribute to nasal discharge and coughing.

Virtually all dogs exposed to CIV become infected, with approximately 80% developing clinical signs of disease. The approximately 20% of infected dogs that do not exhibit clinical signs of disease can still shed the virus and spread the infection.

Like other mammalian influenza viruses, canine influenza virus causes an acute respiratory infection in dogs. There is no “season” for canine influenza, and infections can occur any time of the year. Canine influenza virus infection often resembles canine infectious tracheobronchitis (“kennel cough”), which is caused by one or more bacterial or viral infections, including Bordetella bronchiseptica and parainfluenza virus.

The majority of infected dogs exhibit the mild form of canine influenza. The most common clinical sign is a cough that persists for 10 to 21 days despite treatment with antibiotics and cough suppressants. Affected dogs may have a soft, moist cough or a dry cough similar to that induced by kennel cough. Nasal and/or ocular discharge, sneezing, lethargy and anorexia may also be observed. Many dogs develop a purulent nasal discharge and fever (104-105°F). The nasal discharge is usually caused by secondary bacterial infections, including Pasteurella multocida and mycoplasma species.

Some dogs are more severely affected and exhibit clinical signs of pneumonia, such as a high-grade fever (104°F to 106°F) and increased respiratory rate and effort. Thoracic radiography (chest x-rays) may reveal consolidation of lung lobes. Although most dogs recover without incident, deaths due to H3N2 have been reported.

Cats infected with H3N2 display signs of upper respiratory disease, including nasal discharge, congestion, malaise, lip smacking and excessive salivation.

Diagnosis

Canine influenza cannot be diagnosed solely by clinical signs (coughing, sneezing and nasal discharge) because these clinical signs also present with other canine respiratory illnesses. Tests are available to diagnose and identify stain of canine influenza virus. Tests include: virus isolation, immunoassays to detect virus antigen, PCR to detect virus nucleic acid, and serology for antibodies specific to the virus. PCR may be the most reliable test for the diagnosis of CI. Contact your diagnostic lab for recommendations regarding tests and sample collection.

Treatment
Veterinary expertise is required to determine treatment options and the best course of treatment. Treatment for CI, as for most viral diseases, is largely supportive. Good husbandry and nutrition may help dogs mount an effective immune response. Most dogs recover from canine influenza within 2-3 weeks. Secondary bacterial infections, pneumonia, dehydration, or other health factors (e.g., pregnancy, pre-existing pulmonary disease, immunosuppression, tracheal collapse, etc.) may necessitate additional diagnostics and treatments including, but not limited to:

- Antimicrobials for known or suspected secondary bacterial infections.
- Nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory medications as needed to reduce fever and inflammation.
- Fluids to help correct dehydration or maintain hydration.

Treatment modifications should be made as needed, based on response to treatment, other health factors, and other factors such as compliance and animal care capabilities of the owner/caretaker.

To prevent transmission of the virus, dogs infected with canine H3N2 influenza as well as other dogs in the household should be isolated for 4 weeks.

Antiviral drugs to treat influenza are approved for use in humans only. Little is known about their use, efficacy and safety in dogs. Veterinarians who use approved drugs in a manner not in accord with approved label directions (e.g., use of an antiviral drug only approved for use in humans) must follow the federal extralabel drug use regulations of the Animal Medicinal Drug Use Clarification Act (AMDUCA).

Morbidity and Mortality

Canine influenza virus is not widespread in the dog population and many dogs have never been exposed to the virus. The morbidity rate (the number of exposed animals that develop disease) estimated at 80%. The mortality (death) rate is low; less than 10%. Deaths occur mainly in dogs with the severe form of disease.

To date, no fatalities in cats infected with canine influenza have been reported.

Prevention and Control

The canine influenza virus may persist in the environment for approximately 2 days, and be viable on hands and clothing for up to 24 hours. In veterinary, boarding, and shelter facilities, the canine influenza virus appears to be easily killed by disinfectants commonly used in those facilities, such as quaternary ammonium compounds (e.g., benzalkonium chloride), aldehydes, potassium peroxymonosulfate, phenols and bleach (1:30 dilution) solutions. Cleaning and disinfection protocols should be established to ensure reduce the risk of virus transmission through indirect contact with people or other fomites (e.g. cages, bowls, exam rooms, etc.).

All employees should wash their hands with soap and water:

- Upon arriving at the facility
- Before and after handling each dog
- After coming into contact with dogs' saliva, urine, feces, or blood
- After cleaning cages
- Before eating meals, taking breaks, or leaving the facility
Before and after using the restroom

Isolation protocols should be rigorously applied for dogs showing clinical signs of respiratory disease. Dogs exposed to CI or exhibiting respiratory symptoms should not be brought to locations where other dogs are present such as training classes, shows or events, day care, and boarding and shelter facilities until the isolation period is completed.

Sick or exposed dogs should be isolated, preferably in an area with a separate air supply. An isolation period of 4 weeks is recommended. Wear personal protective equipment (gown and gloves at a minimum) when handling ill animals to avoid contaminating clothing. Clean and disinfect all clothing (including shoes), equipment, surfaces and hands after exposure to dogs showing signs of respiratory disease. Owners whose dogs are coughing or exhibiting other signs of respiratory disease should bring their dogs to facilities where other dogs are present to avoid exposing them to the virus.

Veterinary practices should implement biosecurity protocols to prevent transmission of CI between dogs at the practice. Dogs with clinical signs consistent with respiratory disease should not be allowed in the waiting room. Clients may need to wait in the car with their dog until clinic staff is ready to see the dog without risking exposure to other dogs. Dogs suspected of having CI should avoid the main entrance and enter and exit the facility through a different door. Areas where potentially infected dogs are examined and treated, as well as all instruments used, must be thoroughly cleaned disinfected after the dog is discharged. Staff members should wear personal protective equipment (gloves and a gown at minimum) when examining or caring for dogs suspected of having CI.

Vaccines are available for both H3N8 and H3N2 canine influenza. A bivalent vaccine offering protection against both strains is also available. Currently, there are no canine influenza vaccines approved for use in cats. Vaccination can reduce the risk of a dog contracting canine influenza. Vaccination may not altogether prevent an infection, but it may reduce the severity and duration of clinical illness.

The canine influenza vaccine is a "lifestyle" vaccine, and is not recommended for every dog. In general, the vaccine is intended to protect dogs at risk for exposure to the canine influenza virus, which includes those that participate in activities with many other dogs or are housed in communal facilities, particularly where the virus is prevalent. Dogs that may benefit from canine influenza vaccination include those that receive the kennel cough (Bordetella/parainfluenza) vaccine, because the risk groups are similar. Dog owners should consult with their veterinarian to determine their dog’s risk of exposure to the canine influenza virus and if vaccination is appropriate for their dog.

The AFTC is currently interested in developing a committee to look at ways to encourage new membership and mentorship to breeders and breed enthusiasts. We are interested in promoting membership and mentorship to all ages, with particular outreach to juniors and younger breeders.

If you are interested in helping with this project, please contact Jan Ritchie-Gladstone at

jan@territch.com

Please support the AFTC Silent Auction during this year’s Annual Meeting and Awards Banquet. If you have any items to contribute, please contact Winnie Stout at whstout@earthlink.net. The raffle is always a big hit and we hope to see a lot of people enjoying themselves at this great event!
The American Fox Terrier Club Membership Foundation was established in 2012 to recognize those members with thirty years or more of continuous membership.

The AFTC has been fortunate to enjoy a strong membership over its one hundred and thirty-two years. The club is indebted to those long-time members that continue their support whether or not they breed, exhibit or even own a Fox Terrier.

Each year the membership roster is researched for those members who have thirty, forty and fifty years of continuous membership. The new inductees receive a certificate and will have their names listed in the Annual and announced at the annual dinner Montgomery County weekend.

For 2017, we have six new inductees who have thirty years of continuous membership: Mike Clark, Connie Clark, Carol Greenwald, Dan Greenwald, Marilyn Laschinski and Donna Potter. There are three members who became forty year members; Janie Bousek, Joyce Diehl and Carolyn Laskowski. This year, Joe Bousek, is the only member with fifty years of continuous membership.

There is a total of eighty-seven members with thirty years or more of continuous membership. Eight of these, have been continuous members for fifty years!

The Board of AFTC congratulates the new inductees into the Membership Foundation and thanks all its members for their continued support.
